ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS

- 1. Write a personal statement/essay: Your essay should be between 400-600 words typed and double-spaced (font Times Roman, size 12 pt. if possible). The essay should describe your medium and long-term goals and objectives and clearly outline how your involvement in the Partnership for Youth Program will contribute to your achievement of these goals. The essay should also explain how you will contribute to and enhance the 2007 P4Y program.
- 2. Two Teacher References (using the teacher reference form). Choose teachers who have known you for at least one full year and are familiar with your school as well as community/extracurricular work. Please provide these teachers with a copy of the description of the program, and your personal essay. It is the applicant's responsibility to ask the school/referees to send the reference forms directly to the East-West Center and to make certain that the letters are received by the application deadline.

CHECKLIST OF APPLICATION MATERIALS

The following items constitute a complete application:

- A completed application form (typed or written in block letters using black ink) signed by yourself and your parent or guardian.
- Your personal statement (between 400-600 words on double-spaced typed pages, in Times Roman font size 12pt.)
- Two completed teacher reference forms sent by your referees directly to the East-West Center. Please ensure the reference forms are received by the application deadline.
- A copy of your most recent school report.

THE EAST-WEST CENTER

The U.S. Congress established the East-West Center in 1960 with a mandate to "promote better relations and understanding between the United States and the nations of Asia and the Pacific through cooperative study, training, and research." Under the leadership of an international Board of Governors, the Center works to promote a stable, peaceful, and prosperous Asia Pacific community wherein the United States is a natural and valued partner.

A major effort at the East-West Center has been to help infuse studies of the Asia Pacific region into the curricula of U.S. schools by supporting the professional development of school educators. Through its education programs, the Center works closely with public, private, parochial, and charter elementary and secondary schools as well as colleges and universities nationwide to better prepare the United States for an era of much greater interaction with the Asia Pacific region.

As a public, nonprofit corporation, the Center receives core funding for its programs from a U.S. government appropriation. Additional support comes from foundations, international agencies, Asia Pacific government entities, corporations, and private individuals.
